

1. How many electoral votes does your state have? _____
2. Do the states bordering your state generally have more or less votes than your state?

3. List the states that have ten or more votes.

4. If you were running for president, name the five states you would campaign in most and state why.

5. Name three states that probably have about the same population.

6. How many senators and how many representatives does the state of Georgia have?

7. Name two things the following states have in common: California, Texas, Florida, and Wisconsin.

8. Name another state you could add to the list in number 7.

9. List five states that probably do not see many visits from presidential candidates.

10. Which part of the United States, the east or the west, seems to have more electoral votes. Why are they not more evenly distributed?

Bonus

There is a special election, and the electoral votes from West Virginia and Kansas will determine the winner. Here are the results for candidate X and candidate Y.

State	candidate	Number of popular votes	Number of electoral votes	winner
West Virginia	X	9,000
	Y	9,500
Kansas	X	29,275
	Y	29,000

1. Who won the electoral votes in West Virginia? Look at the map and write the number of electoral votes won in the chart.

2. Who won the electoral votes in Kansas? Look at the map and write the number of electoral votes won in the chart.

3. Who had the most popular votes?

4. Who had the most electoral votes?

5. Who won the election?

6. Some people want to do away with the electoral college. Tell whether you would be for or against this, and explain why.
